PANTAGES EMPLOYE UNWILLING ATTACK WITNESS

PRESS AGENT GRILLED ON STAND.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10 (U.P.)—Reluctant testimony that Eunice Pringle struggled and screamed in the little consultation room where she charged she was attacked by Alexander Pantages, was given in superior court today by William Jobelman, press agent for the wealthy showman.

Jobelman, counted upon as a star witness for the state, balked under questioning by district attorney Burton Fitts and told a clear story only when the examination was taken over by Judge Charles Fricks.

He revealed that in the excitement after the girl's cries had attracted a crowd, Pantages had called him aside and told him what to say to "any police officers or persons who might come from the district attorney's office."

Repeats Story

The story which Jobelman said Pantages gave him was as follows:

"I was going down the stairs and Miss Pringle was just behind me. I stopped in the little room for a minute and she stepped in and started screaming."

The 17 year old cancer testified that Pantages had lured her to the room to discuss booking for her act, had tried to make love to her, and finally had consummated an attack.

Jobelman said that he still was in the employ of Pantages. Fitts began direct examination for the prosecution with confidence, but it soon became apparent that the publicity man did not want to talk.

Reviews Incident

However, under urging by the court, he told of the incident that occurred in the late afternoon of last Aug. 9 in Pantages theater building.

"I was sitting in the publicity office when I heard a girl's

P.G.E. IN GAS FIGHT DEFY

Permission to extend its system to supply 44 towns of northern and central California was asked by the Pacific Gas and Electric company in a petition filed with the State Railroad commission yesterday at San Francisco. The company now serves 98 percent of the artificial gas to this part of the state, and when the new systems are installed, 96 percent of the Pacific Gas and Electric company customers will get natural gas.

The company, in its petition, defines not only the Standard Oil company which is seeking to enter the natural gas distribution field but also the Consumers' Gas company which is trying to invade Alameda county from its present territory in the San Joaquin valley.

Its monopoly on the distribution of the natural gas in this section of the state would be "cinched" by the P. G. and E. if its petition is granted, opponents to the petition declare. The application asks a certificate of public necessity to serve natural gas to all of the present territory of the P. G. and E. company.

In this county it asks to serve San Ramon, Danville, Diablo, Walnut Creek, Lafayette, St. Mary's Moraga and Richmond—territory also sought by the Coast Counties Gas and Electric company.

The disputed territory in Alameda county includes Milway, Livermore, Warm Springs, Sunol, Mission San Jose, Pleasanton and the U. S. Veterans' hospital. The application of the Consumers' company covering this area has been on file with the commission several months and will come up for hearing on Oct. 15.

The Pacific Gas and Electric company declares that it will have natural gas ready and desires to serve it to all of its customers who can be reached by the natural gas transmission lines, and "from reasonable extensions which it proposes to construct therefrom."

One of its extensions, it was indicated, will cross the bay from Solano county to a point near San Rafael, where a distributing system will carry the natural gas to Marin and Sonoma counties.

The meeting was devoted to a discussion of means of securing a large attendance of men at the services. J. Harry Plate was in charge of the session and addresses were made by E. S. Newcom and Rev. A. A. Pratt, pastor of the church.

Rev. Pratt declared that since the loyalty crusade has been instituted the church attendance has increased almost 10 percent.

WHARF PUTS ON GAY COLORS FOR CELEBRATION TOMORROW

Tomorrow is the big day.

As the hour of the Parr-Richmond terminal dedication celebration draws near enthusiasm runs high that Richmond will outdo itself in impressing its own citizens and the outside world that this city knows how.

Most of the arrangements necessary to make the celebration a success has been completed, it was shown in reports by members of J. P. Strom's general committee at a luncheon meeting yesterday, and final touches will be given today and tonight, so that by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the terminal will be a fairyland of gay decorations, waiting for the thousands of merry-makers.

It was prophesied yesterday that the crowd will run between 8,000 and 4,000 the largest group of people ever assembled for one function in the city of Richmond.

Wharf Decorated

The north shed of the big terminal is already gay with red, white and blue bunting, and last night for the first time the interior and exterior lights, especially installed for the occasion, were turned on for their tests. There are eight huge floodlights at the north end, brilliantly marking the structure by night, and showing the way for those seeking parking space after dark.

The interior lighting will be brilliantly white against the gay background of color provided by the decorations.

The speakers' stand has been installed, and the booths for the automobile dealers erected and decorated. Cars for those displays will be moved into place tonight in readiness for the automobile show, which begins at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and continues all day and evening.

New Parade Group

Addition of a new division to the parade was announced yesterday by Dan Cox, chairman of the parade committee. It will consist of a large group of Parent Teacher association members, Girl Scouts and the high school band. There will be at least 25 automobiles carrying the P. T. A. members, and eight for the Girl Scouts. These three units will be placed together and will mean the addition of a new division.

Chief Cox announced that strict observance will be demanded of the proper method of using the American flag in the parade. Flags can be draped over automobiles by Ray Meurer, 140 Santa Fe avenue.

CITIES ASK PHONE QUIZ

OAKLAND, Oct. 10.—UP—The League of California Municipalities, at its closing sessions here today strongly endorsed and urged the U. S. Senate investigation of the affairs of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The league also voted to aid the State Railroad commission to obtain larger appropriations from the legislature to investigate public utilities in this state.

Another resolution considered would affiliate the league with the University of California. In this case the university would act in an advisory capacity in all problems of municipal government.

Long Beach was selected as the 1930 meeting place for the group.

Gordon Whitnall, chairman of the Los Angeles planning commission was elected as president of the organization, while H. A. Mason, of Palo Alto, founder of the league 31 years ago was re-elected as treasurer.

The nominating committee recommended that William J. Locke, city attorney of Alameda, be named as secretary manager of the league, at a salary of $500 a month.

Local Man Hurt In Auto Accident

Victor Puell, 107 Golden Gate avenue, was treated at the Abbott Emergency hospital last night for a slight wound on his left leg received in an auto accident at Garfield boulevard and MacDonald avenue.

U.S. ACCEPTS BID TO NAVY PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (U.P.)—The United States "hastened" today to accept the invitation to the five-power naval disarmament conference planned at London in January, as a gesture of earnest hope for success of that meeting on the heels of Prime Minister MacDonald's departure.

Otherwise formal, the brief note accepting Great Britain's invitation to the conference was made distinctive and almost personal by insertion of the word "hastens," hiding in itself a wealth of meaning. It was virtually a plea for early acceptance by the three other powers, France, Italy and Japan, all of which still are pondering the issues involved.

The note of acceptance from Secretary of State Stimson was embodied in one sentence of exactly 100 words. It was sent to Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, through Ray Atherton, American charge at London. The note said:

Accepts Bid

"I have the honor to refer to the note which you were good enough to address to the ambassador on October 7th, and I take great pleasure in informing you that the American government hastens to accept the invitation of His Majesty's government to a conference on naval armaments to take place in London the latter part of January, which will unite the powers signatory to the Washington treaty in a discussion which will anticipate the problem raised under Article 21 of that treaty as well as broaden its scope by the inclusion of the other categories of ships."

There was a growing conviction here today as the prime minister concluded his visit that he and President Hoover had come further in their conversations than has been revealed publicly.

It is understood that the two reached an understanding on a lower basis of cruiser tonnage than had been thought possible before MacDonald left London. At that time, 30,000 tons of cruisers.

Season Closed By City Band

Featuring classical and popular selection, the Richmond municipal band presented its final concert of the season last night at the west side band stand.

A. A. Hart is director of the band and W. S. Darrell is the manager.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR INNER HARBOR DREDGING

A contract for the widening and deepening of the Richmond inner harbor channel has been originally planned. The wall is let to the United Dredging company by the federal government, next unit will extend more than 3,000 feet, leaving only 2,000 feet to be built. A contract for the remaining 2,000 feet will be awarded by the government next spring.

The dredging program calls for the widening of the channel from the outer harbor to Point Potrero to 300 feet wide and 30 feet deep and the channel from Point Potrero to the inner harbor terminal will be widened to 400 feet with a turning basin at the end.

The city and government will share in the cost of the work. The city, however, will bear a major share of the cost as a considerable portion of the dredging is beyond the project now approved by the government.

Under the new harbor bill pending action in the next session of the congress, federal approval, which means that the government will take over the entire maintenance, burden from the city.

BANK CLERK TELLS OF DEATHS

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 10.—UP—Bandits who disguised their sinister intentions with broad smiles as they entered and then killed two officials as they robbed the First National bank of Lamar of $210,000 in cash and securities on May 23, 1928 were described in district court here today by witnesses to the tragedy.

George J. Abshire, a hireling of the "blood fleegles" is on trial for his life after having confessed to his part in the orgy, which, he says, netted him only $1200. With him in court today sat Howard Royston, giant Californian, another member of the band. Both turned pale and quivered in their seats as witnesses described the cold blooded manner in which the quartet of desperadoes went about their work.

Royston will be the next to go on trial and after him will come Ralph Fleagle, leader of the gang. The fourth member, Jake Fleagle, has not been arrested and the hunt for him is being centered on the west coast.

Mrs. Myrtle Garrett, a bank clerk, described how the bandits entered and killed President A. Newton Parrish and his son John F. Parrish, cashier.

In the exchange of shots Royston was struck in the face. The woman said she obeyed a command to lie on the floor and while she was in that position the injured Parrish stood over her, emptying money drawers while the blood from his wound dripped on her.

2 DIE 13 HURT IN BUS CRASH

RENO, Oct. 11.—UP—Two men were killed and 13 injured when a Yellowway bus overturned on a curve nine miles from here late last night.

The dead have not been identified early this morning. And only two of the injured were able to give their names to hospital authorities. They were: Thomas M. Clarey, Pennsylvania and W. B. Larson, of Salt Lake City. Many of the injured passengers were thought to be from the San Francisco bay region.

The accident occurred when the stage met an automobile on a curve. A tender of the passing machine caught on a fire of the bus and exploded, causing the stage to turn completely over.

The two dead men, one of whom is elderly and the other young were pinned beneath the wreckage for several hours while a rescue crew worked to extricate them.

The bus contained 25 passengers.

AUTUMN CITY

Bestir yourself, vast city by the sea,
Arouse, and fling your summer cloak aside
And swing into a restless, breathless stride
Of mirth and color: autumn gayety.

Like caravans across a desert space
The trains bring human cargo through the fields
Of goldenrod, where, like great crimson shields,
The sumach and the ivy interlace.

Awake, now, autumn city, winter comes.
Across the windswept hillsides, and the snow
Will grip your shafts and towers, and whirl and blow
Above the maze of streets where traffic hums.

And babel of lost voices will resound
From avenue and alley. Swift and gay
The Christmas crowds will flourish and disband
A brighter red than country skies and ground.

Aroused by autumn's vivid colorings
New York awakens, and I match her mood—
Discarding country peace and quietude
For myriad glories that my city brings!

"What Is a Married Woman's Favorite Topic?"

THE "Wise Y's," a club of young married women in Oklahoma City, have just been answering a questionnaire on their favorite topic for discussion, and—so says the National Board of the Y. M. C. A.—"Marriage as a partnership" was the topic which led all the rest. Although other favorites included such themes as "charm," "child training" and "planning a wardrobe." But you just ask any husband if any one of the above topics REALLY is a married woman's favorite—just ask him and see what he'll say! Something tells us that his experience will agree with our opinion.

And that any wife who truthfully answers the question, "What is a married woman's favorite topic?"—ANY wife will have to admit That her favorite topic is her husband and his errors of omission and commission—

Those things he does that he ought not to have done, and those things he leaves undone that he ought to do. The topic of a husband's mistakes and crimes is simply inexhaustible—We quote a few of its innumerable sub-topics:

"Dear, remember you lost your June commutation ticket—"
"Be awfully careful not to lose this one."
"Did you shut the refrigerator door after you got the cold meat for your sandwiches?"
"You know you left it open one night, three years ago this summer."
"Now, don't forget to leave the office in time to meet Aunt Louise's train—"
"I've never felt safe since that time you were ten minutes late."
"And poor Cousin Olive got lost in the subway trying to find us."
"John, if you ever go into the Street again on some fool tip I don't know what I'll do!"
"Of course, you don't know enough to play the market."
"If it looks like rain at five o'clock, be sure to carry your office umbrella—"
"That time you left it in your locker and it poured, you got the worst cold you ever had in your life."
"Dick Ellis, don't you talk to me about staying at the club for a game to-night—"
"Remember what time you got home before—"
"And I HEARD you stumbling over a chair!"
"I think you'd better ask the officer for directions, honey."

"You made a mistake last spring, when you tried to use the map."

"We never save any money, and it's all your fault."
"I'm ashamed to be seen in the car—if you were like most husbands, you'd turn it in and get a new one."
"What's the use of my having dinner on time, when I can never depend on you?"
"I should think you'd know by this time when to bid no trumps."
"Can't you ever leave the stuff alone?"
"Is there—or is there not—a most familiar ring to these favorite topics of the married woman?"
The trouble with the poor dear as domestic conversationalist is that the only thing more inexhaustible than her memory is her vocabulary. That she NEVER knows when to give a favorite topic a rest—Or to give the same to her husband!

IMPRESSION

The wind lies flat across the marsh,
Crushing the reeds beneath its weight—
The sky is tediously harsh,

Reflects its taut transience blurs,
And in the consequential still
A cricket chirps.

SHOW CASE

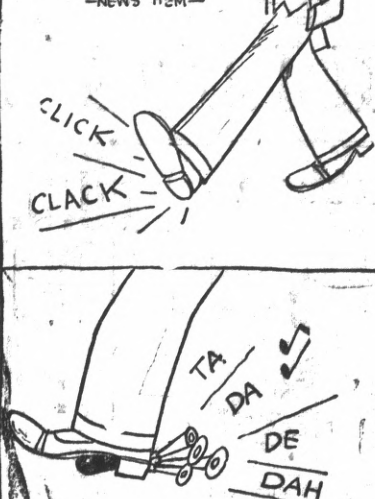

My heart is a dusty show case
Of unrequited loves.
They lie in tumbled and jumbled heap—
Like a bargain sale of gloves.
And sometimes, torn with boredom,

Of half-remembered men.

Now they, poor dears, have been avenged.
They're seen where my love lay
Within a gay lad's polished heart,
With others—on display!

Announcing the Engagement

AFTER the summer vacation there are always engagements to be announced. Following are some methods in which this may be done.

On the centre of the table have a frill of tulle or a mass of gauze ribbon loops surrounding a cluster of roses. Elevated in the centre of this have Dan Cupid bearing a heart in his arm with the words "My Latest Capture" written on it and underneath the names of the engaged couple.

As these announcements are usually in the form of a surprise, it would be surprising to the guests to have the table decorations suggest a love affair. Naturally they would anticipate the announcement at the table and the guests would be amused when the announcements are ended and stunts or written contents are introduced.

The hostess draws silver cords from the centerpiece and passes one to each guest. When the signal is given each pulls out a small envelope containing small pieces of cardboard. The hostess announces that a prize will be given to the person who first puts together the puzzle. When completed the pieces form a heart bearing the interesting news all have so patiently awaited.

A tree might serve as an attractive centerpiece. Around the base have moss (paper) and the little tree can be a branch with real leaves or leaves can be cut from decorative crepe paper and wired to the bough. Autumn leaves would lend a pretty color to the table. In the tree have a nest with two little "love birds" in it. These can also be made of crepe paper. A small heart protruding from the bills of the birds will give out the bit of news.

At one engagement party the finger bowl gave away the secret. Underneath the doilies was an envelope which contained the individual cards of the happy couple held together with heart shaped clips.

The Farmer's Advice

By A. J. Smith

THE other day a friend of mine complained that the fairy castle he used to build in his mind when he was young had faded from his imagination. The dreams have gone, he says.

This is a sure sign of old age. Don't let go of the dreams of the future. Build the castles just the same whether they are to come true or not.

There MUST be some things in this world to look forward to and they are the visions which keep youth from old age and which help to inspire the old to "carry on."

What is YOUR dream of tomorrow?

May you realize it.

Rumblings of Criticism Against Veterans' Bureau Surprise Capital—Gen. Hines Considered to Have Done Good Job Clearing Up Scandal

WASHINGTON, D. C. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, is regarded rather generally as having done a good job. He faced a monumental task when he took over following the scandals of the Harding Administration, the exposure and conviction of Charles E. Forbes.

It is with some surprise therefore that Washington now hears rumors of criticism against the Veterans' Bureau and gossip to the effect that the complaint might be aired at the American Legion Convention in Louisville this week.

The allegation is that a hard-boiled attitude has been displayed toward the ex-service men and that there has been incomprehension among the officials. Representative John M. Robinson, of Kentucky, obtained transfer of Charles W. Bailey, manager of the Kentucky office of the bureau, and has indicated he would ask for a Congressional inquiry if conditions were not improved.

It seems unlikely that the alleged inefficiency of one employee in 27,000 could stand as an indictment of the entire organization which Gen. Hines has developed since taking hold. Senators and others who have been most active in developing the bureau say that they think Gen. Hines has done an excellent job.

With the several million men having relations with the bureau it is hard to be inconceivable that now and then friction would develop but it is asserted in behalf of Gen. Hines that he has sought to remedy such friction as promptly as possible and with as much fairness to the veterans.

COMPLAINTS OF DELAY The burden of the protest appears to rest on the fact that some of the complaints by ex-service men are due to purely political promises of men when campaigning for Congress. Without familiarizing themselves with the law and the regulations they attempt to outdo an opponent by outpromising him. When they learn later they are unable to do all the things they pledged they blame the failure on the Veterans' Bureau.

I heard the other day of one member of Congress who made a definite promise that as soon as he got to Washington he was going to see to it that every soldier in his district could exchange his insurance certificate for cash in the full amount. He was unable to do that and some of the veterans who took him seriously are grumbling about it.

There may be numerous instances of proper complaint against the Bureau but to date there has been no showing of corruption or general incompetence. From time to time Washington hears of what seems to be gross unfairness to worthy cases from which, due to the ignorance of the claimants or their relatives, or both, actual hardship has resulted.

FAULTY PROCEDURE BLAMED The basis of some of the Legion complaints of "hard-boiled" attitudes have been in cases where faulty procedure was shown either in the proper presentation of the papers or prejudicial physical examinations. Many veterans, entitled to higher disability ratings, have been all but destitute.

It is asserted that order has been brought out of the chaos which existed in the Bureau for a long time. The task of putting in proper form the papers of such a large number of men and their rightful beneficiaries, especially where there were every known brand of domestic complications, rival wives, fake wives, women married to many as three or four soldiers, and all that sort of thing, was tremendous.

Those Senators who have kept in closest touch with the Bureau administration believe that Director Hines has been highly successful.

Jerusalem and Rome

The Hebrew editor in Jerusalem who publishes his journal in defiance of the Palestine Government's suppression of the newspapers of the country following the Arab attacks on Jewish workshops and settlements, is Eliezer ben Jehuda, son of the saint, Eliezer ben Jehuda, the compiler of the modern Hebrew lexicon. As renowned a scholar as Father La Grange, head of the Dominican monastery in Jerusalem, who is considered one of the foremost authorities on Palestine, old and new, told me two years ago that, in his estimation, Ben Jehuda was one of the discriminating scientists of our age. "The son, too, is a man of remarkable ability and imagination," said Dr. La Grange. "He conceived the idea of introducing Hebrew in Latin characters. The family of Ben Jehuda speaks Hebrew in Jerusalem when to do so was fraught with great danger. For the old pious Jews were of the opinion that the language of the Bible should not be put to profane use. The Ben Jehudas persisted and won out. All Jewish Palestine talks Hebrew to-day," added the Catholic divine. Curiously enough, Signor Mussolini, when he heard that I had visited Palestine, at once thought of Eliezer ben Avri. "A man with a great imagination," said the Duke.

"He visited the several times and he is always the guest of the Italian Government when he comes to Rome. Ben Avri once told me that it was time we Italians pulled down the Arch of Titus, the symbol of Judea's political destruction," went on the Duke. "I told him we might take it down and ship it to Jerusalem. And imagine," added Signor Mussolini, "that Ben Avri telegraphs in Hebrew, in that language of which Ben Avri said that it was beaten out upon an anvil and could never be vulgarized."

Kermesse in Flanders

This is the time that the fairs or kermesses start in the Flemish villages and towns. It's the great annual event during which gaiety and joy reign unconfined. The scenes immortalized by the Bruegels have undergone not the slightest change with exception of the clothing of the people. The diversions and attractions have remained about the same. And the oil-eaters that Croquet-beggars once stuffed themselves with, are just as greasy and aromatic as of yore. They'll have contests in archery at the fairs, as if gunpowder had never been invented. And in the taverns, the worsted artisans will gather to practice over drinking bouts between tennis from different localities. In this connection it might be said that the "signora," that is to say, the citizens of Antwerp, have only once been defeated in the course of history. That was back in 1572. At that year's fair in Antwerp two men from Ghent were still above the table when all those from Antwerp had been rendered hors de combat. But there was an excuse. Those of Antwerp had previously consumed some sort of fish, which when liberally soaked in their stomachs, made them uncomfortable. In after years they never made the mistake again, eating only salted herring during the drinking bout to get up more thirst.

THE TRUTH ABOUT NAVAL PARITY

By J. Herman Sedlitz

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The purpose of Ramsay MacDonald's visit to America is to settle which country will have the most cruisers. Hoover will explain that on account of so many Americans taking Mediterranean cruises in the winter and Scandinavian cruises in the summer, we have simply got to have more cruisers or the passengers will have to bunk three or four in a berth.

In rebuttal, MacDonald will try to prove that if Americans installed more oil heaters in their cellars during the winter and had cooling systems in their homes for the summer, they would not have to be cruising all over the high seas and we could get along with what cruisers we already have.

On the other hand, Hoover will want to know why England has so many more cruisers when Britons don't begin to travel in such numbers as Americans do. This will undoubtedly stump MacDonald for a minute, but he will probably explain that every British tourist requires more room than an American on account of the bogginess of British weather.

Hoover can come back at this argument with the rejoinder that Britons ought to wear tighter fitting pants. The upshot of the conference will be that the future of the British and American navies will be settled by the London talkers. They always seem to settle everything, anyway.

Of course the real reason Great Britain requires so many cruisers is to take the Prince of Wales on business

When the menu-maker sighs for some new vegetable to vary the seven dinners a week, zucchini or Italian squash furnishes a bit of spice. A member of the marrow or squash family, zucchini resembles the summer squash in flavor and appearance and yet is agreeably different.

Just as the summer squash is at its best when young and tender, so the zucchini. Guttless of seeds, soft of skin and fine-grained, the slender green squash needs little preliminary preparation. A slight trimming at the blossom and stem ends and a careful washing complete the process.

Sliced and fried in oil or butter, or stewed like the familiar patty pan squash, it is popular with families who know its flavor. Split and baked in a savory butter it is a dinner vegetable out of the ordinary.

ZUCCHINI (4)
Four young zucchini
Three tablespoons oil or butter
One minced onion
One teaspoon salt, or less
One teaspoon sugar
Dash of cayenne or paprika
Baking time: thirty minutes in moderate oven.

Any summer squash, crooked neck or patty pan, can be cooked by the above method. As no water other than that caused from the squash is used, the charge that Italian squash is too watery a vegetable for enjoyment is unfounded.

Among the utensils and tools needed for preparing and baking the zucchini are a sharp knife, tablespoon, small frying pan, casserole with cover, tea-spoon, thermometer, clock.

Wash the four or more tender squashes and a test for tenderness is an easily pierced skin—and cut off the blossom and stem end economically. Cut them in halves lengthwise. Mince the onion.

Heat the oil or butter in the frying pan and cook the minced onion therein a minute or two. Place the zucchini halves in the casserole, cut side up, and pour over the onion and fat. Sprinkle with the sugar and salt and add a dash of cayenne or paprika. Cover the casserole and set it to a moderate oven for thirty minutes or longer.

Uncover the casserole during the last ten minutes of baking to allow the liquid to evaporate a little and the squash to brown slightly. Should dinner be delayed, the zucchini may safely remain a longer time in the oven.

Serve with any meat. The Italian peasant grates Parmesan cheese. Tomatoes and mushrooms may be added to the zucchini casserole and still another vegetable dish rewards the courageous cook.

MRS. DEAN BEDFORD CHOOSES SEPARATE BLOUSE AND SKIRT FOR SPORTS WEAR.

Mrs. Dean Bedford favors an amusing little tuck in blouse of solid color with her gayly patterned wool skirt. New in fashion in detail are the normal waistline and flaring hemline. It will be noted that the skirt is circular, another important fashion point.

Feminine lines in the blouse include a softly knotted bow tie at the V-shaped neck. For accessories Mrs. Bedford has chosen a draped felt hat, off the face in line, light sports hose and medium heel sports sandals.

Mrs. Bedford is a member of the Piping Rock club and always much in evidence at the outdoor horse show on the club grounds.

It was a false alarm.

CUBS, ATHLETICS PREPARE FOR THIRD GAME OF WORLD SERIES AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—A great Philadelphia ball club, one of the best of Connie Mack's long regime, came home today prepared to put the finishing touches upon a World Series triumph at the expense of the discomfited Chicago Cubs.

The Athletics laid the foundation for this long sought world championship with two convincing victories in the first two games at Chicago.

The master Masons who helped lay the groundwork, Howard Ehmke, "Lefty" Grove, Jimmy Fox and the others, were all ready to go to work on the hapless Cubs again Friday afternoon, out at Shibe park, where 40,000 Philadelphia fans will enjoy the proceedings.

Weather Good

Downcast but determined, the National league champions will try once more to cut down their rivals' early advantage, perhaps even to build up a world championship of their own.

The weather looked favorable tonight for prompt resumption of the World Series at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. From a baseball point of view, everything pointed to a speedy termination of the post-season engagement with the Chicago Cubs to indicate that they will change the order of things at this late date.

But strange things happen in baseball, and teams have rallied ere this to snatch spectacular victory from the jaws of inevitable defeat.

The Athletics will not be world champions until the last man goes out in the final game. Meanwhile, they have made a very good start in the right direction.

Charley Root looks to be Chicago's main dependence to stem the rising tide of Athletics victory. The veteran right hander, who led the National league pitchers this past season, was getting along rather well in the opening game when removed to make pitch for a pinch hitter. Root had allowed but one homer by Jimmy Fox, who might have won that game if he had been left in. He might win for the Cubs here Friday.

Connie Mack, of course, has so many pitchers he hardly knows what to do. But trust Connie to think of something before game time.

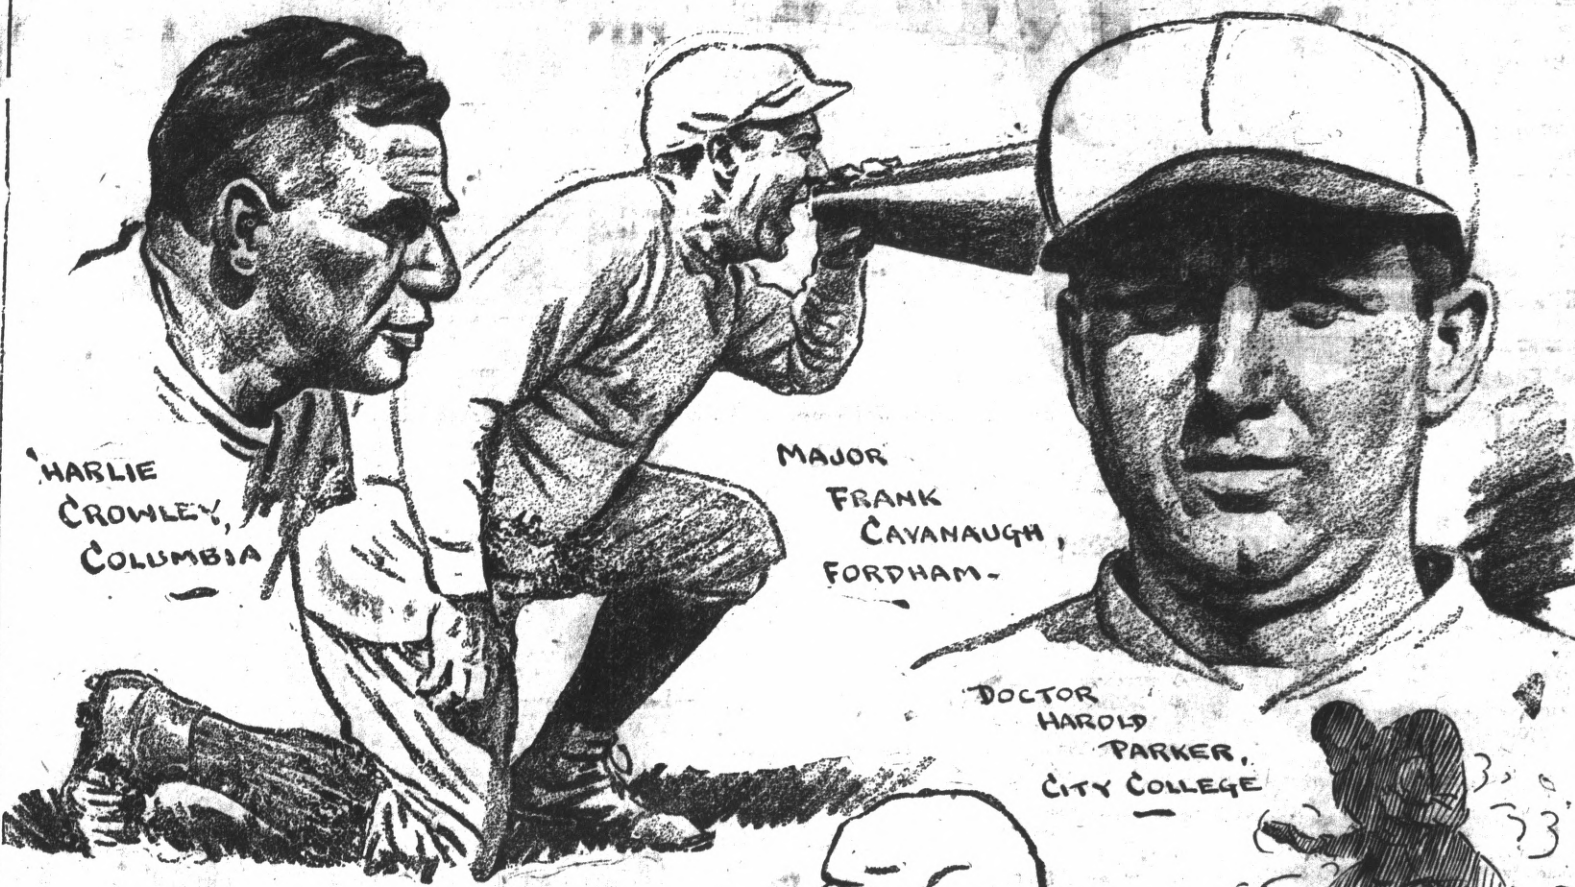

Cubs Collapse

Thus far the outstanding feature of the 1929 World Series has been Mack's selection of Howard Ehmke to pitch the opening game. All Ehmke did was to set a new World Series record for strikeouts as he beat the Cubs, 3 to 1.

Next to this the most remarkable thing about the affair has been the collapse of the National league champions who were rated a strong, aggressive ball club for any man's money before the series began.

Howard Ehmke struck out no fewer than 13 of the Cubs in the opening game, and George Earnshaw and "Lefty" Grove together set down a like number in the second game, which Philadelphia won 2 to 0. Thus 26 of the famous National league sluggers have fanned in two games, which not only constitutes a World Series record, but speaks pretty poorly for Joe McCarthy's ball club.

HEATING UP GRIDIRONS!

PILLETTE BATTED OFF MOUND AS HOLLYWOOD STARS TAKE VICTORY FROM MISSION REDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—With Shellenbach, pitcher, leading the crew of the Hollywood Stars rallied today to capture the third game of the playoff series with the Mission Reds, 11 to 5.

Pillette, who started on the mound for the Reds was driven from the game in the seventh inning, when three runs were added to the six already collected by the Stars. Krause relieved him, but walked into trouble and the Hollywood total.

The San Francisco games of the series ended with two wins for the Missions and one for the Stars.

Shellenbach helped win his own game by starting the Hollywood scoring slugging out a sizzling homer in the third inning. He brought in Bassler ahead of him.

Carlyle Stars

Carlyle, however, was the batting star of the day. His long fly in the fifth stretched into a home run, scoring Humler. In the eighth Carlyle did it again, bringing in Funk ahead of him.

In the seventh Funk and Carlyle singled, and Pillette, who had had heavy going all the way, was yanked for Krause. His successor fared no better, with the Stars on their batting range, and Heath and Bassler collected singles in rapid succession, scoring Funk and Carlyle. Heath scored on Hoffman's error, when he dropped the ball at the plate.

The other Hollywood run came in the fourth inning, with Carlyle starting his hitting spree with a triple, scoring on Heath's single. Heath came in when Pitcher Shellenbach delivered a timely safety for first base.

Reds Slump

The Missions, so brilliant in their first two starts, were anything but stars today. Only once in the game did they look dangerous. That was in the second inning when Sherlock tripled, and came in on Scott's single. Scott followed with a steal of second, and scored on a long chance when Hoffman singled. Pillette's single brought in Hoffman.

Another run for the hometown boys came in when Slade singled and Sherock stretched it to home from second.

A brief Mission rally in the final canto brought in only a single run. Mulligan singled to center, and made it to third on Finn's single. Boone hit a safety to left field, scoring Mulligan. Huff filed for the third out.

The clubs left tonight, and with no intervening rest will resume the series in Los Angeles Friday afternoon.

The defeat today appeared not to worry Manager Killian of the Reds, and he predicted the championship would be his after Saturday's game. McQuaid will be his opener in the southland with Ruether as his ace in the hole Saturday. Cole will work Sunday if necessary.

Oscar Vitt, on the other hand, was bubbling over with confidence after his team showed today the hustle that won the second half of the split season, and predicted a three straight victory to clinch the pennant on his home grounds.

ELK NINE TITLE GAME SET FOR SUNDAY

The Richmond Elks nine will make its final bid for the championship of the northern California Elks league when it meets the Alameda Elks Sunday at the Coast League ball park at Emeryville at 2:30 o'clock. The championship of the league will be in the balance.

The Richmond lodge went through the season in whirlwind style, until it was suddenly swamped by Alameda 15 to 6 last Sunday in what might have been the last game of the season. The Richmond team easily defeated the Alameda lodge earlier in the season, but were completely bewildered by a surprise hitting streak on the part of the Alamedans. The locals are still confident that they will come out on top of the league, feeling that last Sunday's defeat was but a momentary halt in their march to victory. The Richmond players have succeeded in defeating every team in the league, and are fairly certain that Alameda will not prove an obstacle toward winning the championship.

Roy Bliss of "Dutch" Kogler will occupy the box for the locals, and Bertoni or Jensen will be on the receiving end. The umpires will be Sykes and Worth.

The winner of the northern California Elks league will meet the southern division of the Elks league later in the season. The championship game is expected to be played in Fresno. Alameda has had the privilege of meeting the victor of the southern league for four years in succession, but the Richmond lodge believes that it will prevent the island city team from being victorious a fifth time.

SAN PABLO NINE ENTERED IN LEAGUE

Richmond will be represented in the Oakland Winter baseball league by the San Pablo club and the Thomas Motors. The San Pablans and the Guarantors Shaws were admitted late entries into the league. The chance to get back in the league was furnished the San Pablans because of the decision of the league's officials to enlarge the membership of the league from eight to twelve clubs.

The local teams have been doing some fine ball playing during the summer and are expected to stand high in the Oakland Winter league.

The league will open Oct. 20. The opening date has been postponed a week to furnish extra time for practice play. There will probably be two divisions of six clubs each in the league. The winners of the divisions play for the Winter League title at the close of the regular schedule.

The San Pablo ball players will play a practice game Sunday with the Berkeley Y. M. C.

of the city of Richmond arrived yesterday and are in the hands of "Red" Conlon, manager of the team.

The Insurance Agents defeated the Firemen for the championship in the city league.

The gold balls will be presented to the members of the team in the near future.

FINALS IN NET TOURNAMENT TOMORROW

Contra Costa county tennis finals and quarter finals will be played tomorrow and Sunday at the city hall courts.

The schedule for Saturday, beginning at 2:30: Herb Robinson vs. Bob Munch; Gale Warwick vs. George Green; Frank Cove vs. John Muro.

At 3:30 Robinson and Mike Laine will play John Muro and Gale Warwick.

On Sunday at 9:30, Dolph Muchlen vs. winner of Warwick-Green; winner of Cove-Muro vs. winner of Munch-Robinson.

At 10:45, Munch and Muchlen will play winners of Saturday's doubles winners.

Final singles tournament will take place at 12:00.

On Oct. 20 cups will be awarded to the winners at a tennis breakfast at 10 o'clock in the Carquinez hotel. Leading tennis authorities from the bay regions will be present in addition to the tennis players and members of the Richmond Tennis club.

Coast League Umpire Dies

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 10.—U.P.—After having taken ill Saturday at the close of the State-Sacramento baseball series, F. Green, Coast league umpire, died here today.

Contenders In Title Fray Not League Leaders

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (U.P.)—Although the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago Cubs, rivals in the present world series, have been described as the most powerful of nine clubs of recent years, final United Press averages for the 1929 season show that neither team led its league in team batting.

The Cubs, finishing the season with a .303 average to the Pittsburgh for second place, six points behind the Phillies, who topped the National league with a .309 average. The Athletics compiled an average of .295 and finished behind Detroit and New York, which took the first two places with averages of .300 and .296 respectively.

Strangely enough, the two pennant winners—said by critics to be the weakest defensive teams which have competed in a world series during the past decade—topped their leagues in team fielding with identical averages of .975.

Neither pennant winner produced a batting champion. Lefty O'Doul, Phillies outfielder, topping the National league with a total of 400 and Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman, taking individual honors in the American league with 369.

DECORATIONS IN PLACE FOR BIG FETE

Industrial concerns, and the certainty that many hundreds of private machines will participate. All persons going to the inner harbor during the afternoon are urged to join in the parade, which will bring them to the terminal between 3:30 and 4 o'clock, in plenty of time for all details of the program.

Fred D. Farr of the Parr-Richmond company, chairman of the speakers' committee, gave reasons yesterday why the celebration is being held in the north cargo shed of the terminal.

Fete in North End

"It will be noticed," he said, "that there is a large amount of cargo in the south shed and that the north compartment has been left vacant for the celebration purpose. The north compartment is the logical one for the celebration, as it is the one first reached in driving down Tenth street and it is the one where good parking space is most readily available. Further, there is a large quantity of gasoline at the dock awaiting shipment and it would not be wise to have this stacked in the same room where 2,000 or 3,000 people were having a good time. Therefore all gasoline and other cargo has been stacked in the south end and the north shed left free for the celebration. By using this method the public may enjoy itself with no limitations on space, and those who wish to see the terminal in operation can easily do so by going through the south shed and watching shipments being loaded and discharged from steamers."

The mountain where the charge had been placed, crumbled under the terrific blast shortly after preparations had been completed for the discharge tomorrow during a celebration.

The meeting was preceded by a dinner, served by the women of the church. Carl Longacre was in charge of the business meeting.

Bergeman Death Held Suicide

That Charles Bergeman, of the Pullman district, met his death by suicide was the verdict of a coroner's jury here last night. Bergeman was found dead in his gas-filled store near the Pullman ships several weeks ago. Illness was attributed as the cause of his death.

The jury found that W. F. Watson, employee of the California Cap Works died from natural causes. Watson dropped dead near the Potrero avenue car line while waiting for a street car.

Coroner Aubrey Wilson conducted the inquests.

screams, and I ran out and saw her struggling in the little room," he said.

He then related the explanation of the incident which Pantages asserted told him to make to any investigators who arrived at the theater, but held doggedly to his statement that other than "talking over what had happened," he had not received and instructions from Pantages regarding court testimony.

Talked It Over

"We just talked it over," Jobelman declared. "I can't remember that Mr. Pantages made any other statements."

"This witness has taken me clearly by surprise," Fitts told the court. The district attorney had promised newspaper men that Jobelman's testimony would be sensational. Shortly after the alleged attack Jobelman went voluntarily to Fitts and promised to testify for the state.

After a recess, Fitts resumed questioning of Jobelman in an effort to show that Pantages had instructed the publicity man to say that he had been in the little room up to a few minutes before the girl was heard screaming.

Not In Room

"Were you in that little room that day?" Fitts shouted at the still sobbing witness.

"No," Jobelman replied.

"Did Mr. Pantages tell you how long he was in that room?"

"He said two or three minutes."

"Do you know how long he was in that room?" Fitts continued.

"No, I do not know how long," Jobelman admitted.

Jobelman had told him that "I had gone into my office to call up a film exchange." He said he had been in the conference room only once in his life.

On cross examination, defense attorney Joe Ford had Jobelman enlarge upon what he had heard the day of the alleged assault.

Tells Events

"Well, I was sitting in my office, Louis Fisher, a newspaper advertising copy boy had just left some material. When I heard the noise in the hall I thought he was cat-calling and looked out. But I saw it was a girl who was struggling. I ran out and shut two doors opening into the theater in order that the audience would not become panic-stricken."

"Are you in fear of the district attorney?" Ford asked in an effort to show that Jobelman had been treated sternly.

"I am not, but I was when I first went there because I had told a falsehood," Jobelman answered, evidently referring to the explanation which he had said earlier Pantages told him to make. Jobelman was still on the stand at adjournment.

Frameup Charged

Ever since the girl made her charges, Pantages had held that the affair was a frameup and that it came at a time when he had sold his theater circuit for more than $30,000,000.

W. C. Hale, a movie extra, who testified for the state, was cross examined during most of today's two sessions. The defense failed in an attempt to show that he was wanted in San Antonio, Tex., on ten felony charges and Fitts' remark that he was not was stricken out.

WITNESS HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 10 (U.P.)—J. A. Sheridan, who testified in Los Angeles Wednesday against Alexander Pantages, was ordered to the county jail here today when he could not meet a $10,000 bond after his preliminary hearing on a forgery count was continued until Nov. 6.

Sheridan was said to have forged the name of G. M. Whitcomb to a $250 check, but to have paid the amount back later. He

Northern Gold Rush Ended

WALLACE, IDA., Oct. 10 (U.P.)—Idaho's "bonanza"—high up in the mountains northwest of Wallace—has turned out to be a disappointment.

Through Wallace today trekked gold rushers from the country where a rich strike was reported early this week. They brought with them stories of blasted hope, disappointed expectations and bitter failure.

There is plenty of gold in the mountains, but it is all in one outcropping.

The remoteness of the district, it will be costly to mine and except for the original strike, there is little paying ore in that part of the state.

About a dozen claims have been staked out along the original discovery, reports said, but the real bonanza is so deep that it will be practically impossible to mine it profitably.

The original strike was made by John S. Stout, veteran prospector, about two weeks ago. A sample assayed $2,663 in gold and $2 in silver.

Aged Suspect In Stabbing Freed Pending Trial

MARTINEZ, Oct. 10.—Frank Galligan, 72 year old county house prisoner, who is alleged to have stabbed Thomas Meenan, 76, fellow inmate, in a hospital brawl three weeks ago, was free today on his own recognizance. He will enter a formal plea on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, on Dec. 2.

Auditors indicated today that they will not oppose probation for the aged man, as Meenan believed at first to be fatally injured, has now nearly recovered from his injury.

Galligan was freed by an order of Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado.

2 Inquests Held At Pittsburg

Two inquests were held by Aubrey Wilson, Richmond coroner, recently, into the deaths of Horace Smith, negro, and Chan Non, Smith's death was found to have been caused from hemorrhage, caused by a gunshot wound, inflicted by Delano Delahoussaye, negro. Witnesses stated that Smith was shot by Delahoussaye early Sunday morning in the back of a barber shop in Pittsburg. The argument is said to have started over a game of cards.

In the case of Chan Non, of Antioch, who was found dead on Sept. 24, death was declared due to suicide from hanging.

testified in the Pantages trial that Pantages had asked him to say that he was in the little room where the theater man is accused of attacking Eunice Pringle, and that for a time he had intended to do so, although he really was in San Diego on that day.

'STRAY CATS' TO BE PRESENTED TONIGHT

"Stray Cats," a three act farce, will be presented by the Little Theater club, composed of young people from the First Christian church of Richmond, at the Roosevelt auditorium tonight at eight o'clock.

The farce, which is one of the most popular of the new plays, is produced by special arrangement with Banner Play Bureau of San Francisco.

Combining all the essentials that go to make up a good play, namely drama, comedy and complicated situations, the plot is exceptionally clever, with a surprise climax.

The play deals with the efforts of three cousins to obtain a $4,000,000 inheritance. All characters have been selected carefully for their ability to interpret the respective roles, and have been rehearsing for weeks to attain their goal.

Allen Moore takes the part of Dick Skinner, in whose photographic studio the action takes place. Dick who is easy going is saved from financial ruin by his secretary who is secretly in love with him, Kitty Baker, the former a tap dancer and Elizabeth Thomas, both looks and acts her part as leading lady, furnishing most of the real drama and more serious parts of the play.

Clarence Brown, playing the chief comedy role, takes the part of Harry B. Skinner, one of the Jones Skinner boys. Skinner is the rheumatic old farmer who comes to town in search of a fortune and a wife. Tom Skinner, the third of the Skinner family is interpreted by Howard Sprague. Tom is a middle aged bachelor lawyer.

The role of Mrs. Jennie Long, an entrancing widow of uncertain age, is done by Miss Katherine Hayes, while Miss Madge Turner is Leona Hayes, an outdoor society girl. The role of Wanda Taylor, artist model, is played by Melvin Sprague, who takes the part of Rev. Patterson, appearing in this last act to officiate at—maybe a wedding, maybe a funeral. But which ever it is the ending will come as a complete surprise.

were in dispute. No details have been revealed, but it is believed that this cruiser tonnage may be eliminated from the parity minimums suggested in previous negotiations.

Understanding Reached

This would tend toward actual reduction of authorized building programs which was sought originally by President Hoover when he declared for "reduction" rather than mere "limitation."

It is understood also that the two reached an understanding on the disputed issue of "freedom of the seas," but there has been no revelation of just what that understanding provides.

The British prime minister's farewell to Washington was devoid of any military display. There were no troops and no bands at the station as his train pulled out, as there had been when he arrived here last Friday. Secretary of State Simson and other high officials represented the government at the station.

"I am sorry to be leaving you," MacDonald said just before the train left, waving his hat to the crowd from the back platform.

His daughter stood by his side, smiling.

HIGH PLAYS TO BE PRESENTED TONIGHT

The doors of Richmond Union high school will be open to the public tonight when the Richmond high school student association presents three one-act plays in the school auditorium.

Tonight's program is the first public entertainment to be presented this term by the high school pupils. The plays are "The Travelers," "The Heart of Frances," and "The Managers."

"The Heart of Frances," by Constance Wilcox, describes how a girl chose between two men which one she would marry. The plot is treated as a fantasy, with goblins, rag dolls, and imaginative scenery furnishing much of the interest of the play.

"The Managers" is a tale written by Joseph C. Lincoln dealing with the life in a fishing village in Maine. The play concerns two retired seamen who engage in an argument over the mastery of their home. A surprise is furnished when the two men find that neither is the master. Joseph Lincoln has put the atmosphere of Maine into his story, and has succeeded in making "The Managers" a delightful comedy.

"The Travelers" is one of Booth Tarkington's most amusing comedies. It concerns a party of American tourists who become stranded in an inn far back in the Castro Giron mountains of Sicily. Thrills are afforded when mysterious faces are seen, lights go out, and horrible sounds are heard during the night.

The plays are directed by Mrs. Nellie Pershon, Dorothy Cox, Blanche Carson and Virginia Leo Staunton.

The stage management will be under the direction of Harry Teztl. The art classes of Richmond Union high school designed the scenery for the production and the settings were constructed by the woodwork classes under the direction of William Neeley. The costumes were made by the sewing classes of Jennie Gardner.

The entire school has cooperated to make tonight's presentation one of the best entertainments that the pupils of Richmond Union high school have yet offered.

The Richmond Union high school Girl Reserves are planning to hold a weenie roast at the Red and Gun club Oct. 17. They will also hold a party Oct. 24 in the Richmond Union high school community theater.

A $1.25 to Bid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channels of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.
